Hi-Fi Whirled

By BARNEY GLAZER

For good, old-fashioned evocative sounds, you'll love Floyd Cramer's new MGM album, "That Honky Tonk Piano." This one will bring back delightful memories as Mr. Cramer plays: "Sweet Adeline," "Good Time Cake Walk," "Pretty Blue Jeans," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and many other old goodies.

Richard Farrell, pianist, is featured on a Mercury high fidelity Olympia Living Presence album: "Liszt: Piano Concerto No. 1 in E-flat Major; and Grieg: Piano Concerto in A Minor, Op. 16," with George Weldon conducting the Halle Orchestra. These Liszt and Grieg concertos are among the most popular in the entire literature. Each is a prime example of the romantic concerto.

Decca's newest recording artist, Miss Pat Kirby, is one of the most talented newcomers in show business as evidenced by her album, "What Is This Thing Called Love?" You will remember Pat from Steve Allen's late TV show. She sings: "All or Nothing At All," "Lover Man," "Love is a Simple Thing," "Like Someone in Love," and others.

"Music from the Sound Track of 'Anastasia'" is a Decca album of special interest.

this week. Music is by one of film's most gifted composers, Alfred Newman, and this album adds to the many brilliant original scores recorded by Decca. Featured in the movie are Ingrid Bergman, Yul Brynner and Helen Hayes.

For a glorious collection of noises, don't miss Epic Records' album, "Barrel Organ in Hi-Fi." This introduces to America the sound of one of the most celebrated sights of The Netherlands, and the music of one of the great street organs of the world, the dazzling instrument known as "The Arab." In Amsterdam, this organ and others like it give enormous pleasure to young and old alike. Our closest approach to it in this country is the merry-go-round.

Music for the quiet, reflective moment, music for lovers is presented by MGM Records in their album, "Love Letters," with Vic Ash and the Laurie Johnson Orchestra. Ash is England's brilliant clarinetist who helps to bring us a highly entertaining album. Included are: "Love Walked In," "Love Is Here to Stay," "When Your Lover Has Gone," "I'm in the Mood for Love," and others following the heart pattern.

The wearers of the green will especially welcome Decca Records' album: "From Donegal to Galway Bay" with James McCafferty directing the Little Gaelic Singers. This one is for the Irish year around from St. Patrick's Day to St. Patrick's Day. Included are typical Irish folk songs and ballads, beginning with the most beloved of them all, "Danny Boy," and winding up with four rousing Irish marching songs.

Guy Lombardo maintains his decade-to-decade popularity with his Capitol single, "The Tears in Your Eyes." Robert Mitchum does a sensational calypso for Capitol in "Mama Looka Boo Boo" — Dean Martin should have a hit for Capitol in "Captured."
